

"Therefore, put on every piece of God's armor so you will be able to resist the enemy in the time of evil. Then after the battle you will still be standing firm."

EPHESIANS 6:13

STILL STANDING

"How do you manage this job year after year?" someone recently asked my officer. The burden of witnessing society's darkest moments, the stress of rotating shifts, and the unrelenting demands of constant vigilance—it's not just about surviving one tough call but enduring decades of dedicated service. Every seasoned officer who reaches retirement learns one crucial truth: enduring a career in law enforcement requires more than just tactical skill—it demands resilience.

As police wives, we share a common challenge. It's not just about getting through one sleepless night, one missed family event, or one season of civil unrest. God calls us to stand firm after years of supporting our officers, raising our children amidst unpredictable schedules, and maintaining hope when the world feels increasingly hostile to law enforcement. When we lean into God's strength, we become incredibly resilient, capable of facing whatever challenges come our way. This long-term endurance comes only through relying on His complete armor.

When we are fully equipped with God's armor, we don't just survive today's battle; we continue to stand through years of challenges. His armor does not wear out, break down, or need replacement. It is designed for the long haul, sustaining us through every season of this calling.

STAND STRONG TRUTH

God's armor sustains me through every season.

POLICE WIFE PRAYERS

Heavenly Father, thank You for being my source of endurance in this law enforcement life. When the years feel long and the challenges keep coming, remind me that Your strength never fades and Your grace never runs dry. I'm grateful that You've designed Your armor for the long journey ahead, not just for today's battle. When my own resilience wavers, help me remember that You are my sustaining power. Thank You for equipping me to do more than just survive-You've prepared me to stand firm through every season. Fill me with renewed strength and hope as I support my officer, raise our family, and navigate this calling. May Your unfailing faithfulness be my foundation for the years to come.

In Jesus' name, amen.
